Rockefeller to Defeat Ave, AP Poll Forsees

By CHARLES DUMAS
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—An informal survey by The Associated Press has disclosed a swing toward Nelson Rockefeller that could carry him to an upset victory over Gov. Harriman in the election for governor.

On the other hand, the Democratic candidate for U. S. senator, Frank S. Hogan, appeared to be running well ahead of his Republican opponent, Rep. Kenneth B. Keating.

See Gains in Gotham

This was indicated by AP staff samplings of public opinion during campaign trips with the candidates in virtually all sections of the state.

It appeared that Rockefeller not only would hold the traditionally Republican vote but also register substantial gains in heavily Democratic New York City.

This combination of factors would spell defeat for Democrat Harriman, who has been regarded in many quarters as the favorite.

When he edged out U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives four years ago,

Harriman was aided by a big Democratic turnout in New York and widespread lethargy among Republicans Upstate.

This year, however, voter registration has risen several hundred thousand in the GOP's Upstate bastion. Rockefeller has drawn large and obviously enthusiastic crowds during his recent campaign appearances.

Gaining Upstate, Too

Harriman's campaign strategists have conceded privately that Rockefeller will make inroads in New York City. They have been counting on Harriman gains Upstate to offset such a loss.

The AP survey indicated, however, that Rockefeller was holding the line in most areas Upstate and even appeared to be gaining in some.

In questioning voters, reporters concentrated on the "switch factor." Virtually all of the people who said they voted Republican in 1954 said they planned to vote for the GOP candidate again. About a fifth of those who said they voted Democratic expressed a preference for Rockefeller this time.

Surveys in New York City also indicated a heavy switch toward Rockefeller among people who voted Democratic four years ago.

Among people who planned to switch to Rockefeller, this reason echoed like a refrain:

Interest Heightens
"I think he ought to have a chance. I'd like to see what he can do."

The survey showed a heightening of interest in the "Battle of Millionaires" as the gubernatorial race reached the home stretch phase. There was considerably less interest in the Keating-Hogan duel.

Hogan seemed likely to run far ahead of Keating in New York City, where the Democratic nominee was elected district attorney of Manhattan four times with endorsements of all major parties.

To offset this "habit" voting in New York, Keating strategists have been banking on a massive GOP organization vote Upstate for the Rochester congressman.

The indications were that Keating would run well behind Rockefeller and that his best chance for victory rested in the hope for a Rockefeller landslide that would carry Keating into office with him.

Archbishop Dies as Vote Opens

Death of Detroit Prelate Unlikely To Delay Conclave

ROME (AP)—Edward Cardinal Mooney, archbishop of Detroit, died today at 74 as the conclave to select a new pope was about to begin.

Cardinal's Mooney's death cut to 51 the number of cardinals who will elect the new pope.

Had Heart Condition

First information was that his sudden death was not expected to affect the beginning of the conclave to elect the pope.

The cardinal's death was reported by the Rev. Joseph Tucek, head of the National Catholic Welfare Council's Service in Rome.

Father Tucek said that death was due to a heart condition from which the Detroit prelate had been suffering for a long time.

He came to Rome by ship because of this condition, which did

Two Charges Cost Driver $200 Today

A 21-year-old local man paid a total of $200 in fines today in city court on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and driving while intoxicated.

Richard Richards, of 33 Henry Street, pleaded guilty to both charges before City Judge Aaron E. Klein, who also revoked his chauffeur's license.

Richards was fined $100 or 100 days on the charge of driving while intoxicated, received a 90-day suspended sentence and was placed on six months probation.

He was fined an additional $100 or 100 days on the charge of leaving the scene of an accident, received a 90-day suspended sentence and an additional six months probation.

Richards was arrested Friday by Officer John Crespo. The officer reported that he was turning left off Greenkill Avenue from Cedar Street in his own personal car when Richards almost hit him.

Hits Taxicab

Crespo gave chase down Greenkill Avenue and Richards hit a taxi owned by Powell's Taxi Co., of 129 Cedar Street, on the left side. He was arrested at Greenkill and Wilbur Avenues by Crespo.

A man and two youths were arrested early Friday evening following a reported altercation at the Trailways Terminal, Broadway and Pine Grove Avenue.

Arthur Holmes Jr., 21, of 8 Pine Street, was arrested on a third degree assault charge on complaint of Nels Wennersten, of RD 3, Box 155, Saugerties.

Cornelius Edward Kidney, 19, of 7 Russell Street, also was arrested on a third degree assault charge.

Donald Charles Kidney, 17, same address, was arrested at police headquarters by Officer Robert Bonesteel on a disorderly conduct charge.

Charged With Damage

Holmes was later arrested at police headquarters by Sgt. William Hanley on a malicious mischief charge, involving alleged damage to a city detention cell. Police reported that a window, screen and electric light fixture

Implies His Forces May Intervene

Avoids Claiming Counterattack if Uprising Occurs

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek said today the time for a revolt in Red China is ripening. When it comes, he added, its success would be expedited from outside.

Chiang apparently implied that his own Nationalist forces would intervene in a Hungarian-type uprising. But he carefully avoided saying the Nationalists would counterattack against the Communists who threw them off the mainland in 1949.

Has Renounced Force

In a joint communique with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles on Thursday, Chiang renounced the use of force as the principal means of returning to the mainland. This renunciation was reported sought by Dulles to allay fears of U. S. allies that Chiang would drag America into war with Red China, possibly touching off World War III.

When the communique was issued, however, Nationalist sources indicated the ban on force did not apply in case of a revolt. The Nationalists long have contended a revolt would come and would result in the Nationalists to control of the mainland.

Dulles said in Washington Sept. 30 it was "hypothetical and problematical" whether Chiang would be asked to head any regime which might come out of a mainland revolt. This and other remarks by Dulles angered Chiang and led to their three-day meeting this week.

Sure of Success

Chiang said today people on the Communist mainland are living like slaves and longing for deliverance by the Chinese Nationalists. A revolt is inevitable and it unquestionably would succeed, he declared.

The generalissimo, who will celebrate his 72nd birthday next Friday, made his remarks in a statement on the 13th anniversary of China's recovery of Formosa from Japan after World War II.

Meanwhile, the commander of U. S. Army forces on Formosa announced that a number of the most deadly U. S. anti-aircraft missiles, the Nike-Hercules, are now ready to shoot down any attacking Communist planes. Maj. Gen. Lenader L. Doan added that the U. S. missile crews who arrived 17 days ago "are on alert around the clock."

Shelling Continues

The Communist bombardment of the Quemoy islands continued. The Nationalist defense ministry said the shelling of the offshore islands was light during the first part of today. The ministry claimed counterfire since the Communists broke their ceasefire Monday had knocked out 51 Red guns.

AP correspondent David Lanchester on Quemoy reported some of today's shells hit within sight of the Quemoy air strip without stopping two Nationalist transport planes.

One brought Gen. Wang Shuming, chief of the Nationalist general staff, to Quemoy and returned to Formosa empty. The second evacuated seven wounded soldiers and two families from the battered island.

48 Cardinals Begin Vote on New Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church today began the solemn ritual of electing a new pope.

Forty-eight of the 52 princes of the church, who will be closeted in secret conclave later today, walked in solemn procession in red and purple robes into St. Peter's Basilica and prayed for Divine guidance in choosing a successor to Pius XII who died Oct. 9.

Beatification Looms

There, Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, French-born dean of the College of Cardinals, celebrated the "Mass of the Holy Spirit."

As the cardinals—nearly all of them created by Pius XII in two post-war consistories—prayed for guidance, there was word that the process for beatification of the dead pontiff would be started in the near future.

In an exhortation pronounced by Msgr. Antonio Bacci, the Vatican's expert, they were urged to elect a pope "who is a teacher, pastor of souls and father to all people."

Fifty-two cardinals are here for the conclave but four infirm members were absent from today's Mass.

These were Thomas Cardinal Tien, exiled archbishop of Peiping; Joseph Ernest Cardinal Van Roey, 84, of Belgium; Georges Cardinal Grete, 86, of Le Mans, France; and Carlos Carmelo Cardinal de Vasconcellos Motta, 68, of Brazil.

Two other absent members of the 54-member college were Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty, in refuge in the U. S. Embassy in Hungary; and Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac, sick and confined to his native village in Yugoslavia by the Communist authorities.

With bowed heads, the princes of the church listened to Msgr. Bacci's exhortation that underlined the importance of their task of choosing the 262nd pontiff.

Under centuries-old conclave procedure, as amended by the late Pius XII, he had the duty of exhorting the prince of the church to choose a capable pastor, and

Ottawa Blast Is Fatal to 2, Area Like War Scene

OTTAWA (AP)—A mysterious explosion today rocked downtown Ottawa, wrecking several buildings and shattering windows over a wide area.

At least two persons were killed. Every window in the nine-story Jackson building was shattered and part of the roof was torn off.

It contains government offices. Several other buildings and five homes were destroyed.

Quiet Day Factor

Equipment from every fire station in the city was called out. Only the fact that the blast occurred on a Saturday morning, when downtown Ottawa is comparatively quiet, prevented huge casualties.

The explosion came about 8:40 a.m. Its main force appeared to be centered in the Myers Motors Building and in the Jackson Building.

Witnesses said the area looked like a wartime scene. Damage was tentatively estimated in excess of one million dollars.

An ambulance driver said several were trapped in a building owned by Myers Motors Ltd.

Heard for Miles

The driver said several persons who had been walking outside a department store were "sucked right into the store" through shattered windows. Some were injured.

The explosion was heard for miles. First reports said the explosion may have been caused by a boiler or natural gas. Neither has been confirmed.

Fire officials called every off-duty fireman to the scene.

Recover Two Bodies

Police and firemen dug frantically in the debris of what was the show rooms of Myers Motors. At least two bodies had been taken out 15 minutes after the explosion.

The force of the blast smashed plate glass store fronts over a wide area, including Sparks St., one of the city's main shopping thoroughfares within sight of the Parliament buildings.

Hope Seen Remote for Trapped 81

SPRINGHILL, N.S. (AP)—Rescue teams inched today down a debris-choked mine shaft heavy with poisonous gas toward 81 men trapped and possibly killed by an explosive shift of rock. Twelve others are known dead.

A mine official said there was a very remote hope that some of the trapped miners might be found alive but nothing had been heard since the accident Thursday night to indicate there were more survivors.

Eighty-one other men got out alive after the unexpected earth shift, the most severe in memory in North America's deepest coal mine. Fifteen of the survivors were injured.

Ten bodies have been recovered. One official said two more bodies had been spotted by rescue crews and would be brought up later.

Harold Gordon, coal chief for the mine owners, spent hours in the mine shaft and then told newsmen:

No Contact Indications

"There is a remote hope—very remote—that some men will be alive at the bottom end and the top end of the 13,000-foot level." He said the basis for this hope was an indication that conditions at the two ends were not so bad as elsewhere in the mine.

Asked if there had been any contact with missing miners that would indicate survivors, Gordon replied: "None."

Kapers Go on At GW School

The 1958 Kiwanis Kapers will be presented Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the auditorium of George Washington School, not at Kingston High School.

Certain time of the elaborate show, featuring Kiwanians and their friends, is 8:15 p. m. Proceeds are for the scholarship fund of the organization.

Caption with photos of the cast last night inadvertently named the wrong school auditorium.

Witnesses said the area looked like a wartime scene. Damage was tentatively estimated in excess of one million dollars.

Dutchess Case Probed

2 Given 10-30 for Taking Cigarettes

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Harriman's counsel is to study the case of two Puerto Rican farmhands sentenced to serve 10 to 30 years in prison for attacking a youth and stealing a few cigarettes.

Gov. Harriman directed Daniel Gutman Friday to make an investigation into the case and the backgrounds of the men. Harriman said he had received numerous protests against the sentences.

The farmhands, Carmelo Caraballo, 25, and Gaspar DeJesus, 24, were convicted Sept. 25 in Dutchess County Court in Poughkeepsie of first-degree grand larceny and second-degree assault.

The sentences, announced Tuesday, are the minimums allowed by law for convictions on those charges. They could have received a maximum sentence of 30 years in prison.

The prosecution contended at their trial that Caraballo and DeJesus, who worked on a farm in Putnam County, demanded cigarettes from 20-year-old Charles R. Anson of Poughkeepsie on a street last July 5. He refused and, the prosecution said, the men attacked him.

It was charged that, after a scuffle, the farmhands grabbed the cigarettes and fled in an automobile. They got less than a pack, Anson said.

Ike Bids Reds Join In 1-Year Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called on Russia today to join the United States and Britain in banning all nuclear weapons tests for one year beginning six days hence.

Eisenhower issued the call after meeting with Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, head of the American delegation which will negotiate with the Soviets in Geneva on an inspection system to police such a ban.

The President's statement noted that both Britain and the United States had announced their readiness to stop testing atomic-hydrogen weapons for a year beginning with the start of these negotiations Oct. 31.

Russia has been carrying out an extensive series of nuclear tests during the past few weeks after ending its own self-imposed ban.

Eisenhower, in discussing this problem, said:

"It thus lies with the Soviet Union to decide whether on Oct. 31 all countries which have tested nuclear weapons will have voluntarily suspended testing."

"The United States regrets that the Soviet Union has not accepted the offer of the United States and the United Kingdom, although we still hope that it will do so."

"The United States still is conducting its series of nuclear tests in the Nevada desert. No specific date for ending the tests have been announced."

White House press secretary James Hagerty told newsmen the American and British delegations will show up at Geneva for the conference "at the appointed place and the appointed time," expecting the Soviets to send a

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

A Japanese who once hated Americans has been turned by faith in God to the love of all mankind. The Japanese is Captain Mitsuo Fuchida, leader of the air attack on Pearl Harbor, who was once tried as a war criminal and acquitted.

After the war, in the countryside of Japan, he began to think of peace. He wondered what could transform hatred into brotherly love. Then a returning prisoner told him of a Christian American girl who ministered to him in camp, even though her parents had been killed by the Japanese. Also, he learned how the hatred of a Doolittle bombardier had turned to love while reading the Bible in a Japanese prison.

Fuchida bought a Bible. Reading Christ's words on the cross, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do," he knew the power to transform hatred into love. He became a devoted Christian. Today, he preaches to his countrymen, and heads the Sky Pilots of America in Japan, a leading Christian youth organization.

Your Life And Mine

By CLYDE HERBERT SNELL
THE FUEL IGNITERS

Some little time ago a friend of mine told me about some fancy spark plugs he had tried. According to the advertisement these plugs were supposed to work miracles with a motor. In fact, they were so "outstanding" that they were not even called "spark plugs;" they had been christened "fuel igniters." ("A rose by any other name will smell as sweet," as Shakespeare reminds us; and spark plugs by any other name still must measure up to the test of how efficient they are at setting fire to the gasoline in the engine head.) So, he sent for a set—on trial. He said they did seem to make the motor run a bit more smoothly. But when he checked up on his mileage he discovered that the new idea in ignition was an expensive one. For with just plain "old-fashioned" spark plugs he had been getting around seventeen miles to the gallon; but with the "fuel igniters" he got only about thirteen. Naturally he took them out, "fired" them back to the company, and requested a refund of his money. (I hope he got it.)

Most of us aren't ready to sacrifice four or five miles to the gallon for a hard-to-detect improvement in the sound of the motor. Bargains that are represented to be fancy do not always turn out to be. Once in a while, to be sure, one comes upon a real bargain in merchandise. Sometimes one can pick up a shirt or blouse at a significant saving. But bargain hunters have to be alert to discern true values. A little starch can put a wonderful front on an inferior garment for sales purposes. The first trip through the washing machine will provide a painful disillusionment. I read about a man who took such long steps to save the leather in his eight-dollar shoes that he ripped his twelve-dollar trousers. His intentions were good. But he had unwittingly shifted his project of economy into a disheartening reverse.

The items out of which life is made are never found among the fancy bargains. There are never any mark-down sales on character. It always comes at the high price of sincerity, heaving carefully and consistently by the moral lines, being fussy about living conscientiously by the highest ideals. Heaven never runs any enticing ads featuring peace at half-price. Peace comes only when we try sincerely to live, day by day, so that all we are, and do, will merit the approval of God who gives us the privilege of life. The freedoms we prize are exceedingly costly commodities. Lincoln etched that in an immortal phrase when he spoke about those who gave "their last full measure of devotion." "The axes of God's universe turn upon truth," as another has said, "and will not tolerate the falsehoods of men. Where truth is sought, known, proclaimed, and abided by, only there is freedom."

Our tragic human folly is that, in the market where these spirit commodities are sold, we buy and use the fuel igniters; and it never seems to occur to us to check up on our soul's mileage—until it is too late!

Reformation Day Services Set by Church Council

The Kingston Area Council of Churches announces a united Protestant Reformation Day service of worship to be held Sunday 7 p. m. in the First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue at Broadway. Congregations will join in the observance of the founding of the Protestant Reformation at the close of the 15th century by Martin Luther.

A guest speaker is invited from the ranks of laymen in the Methodist Church. He is Sven E. Stromberg, prominent layman from the Methodist Church of Pleasantville. An executive of the New York Telephone Company, Mr. Stromberg has taken a leading role in his denomination, throughout eastern New York State.

Beginning as a delegate from the Swedish Methodist denomination to the uniting conference of the Methodist Church in 1939, Mr. Stromberg has represented the New York Annual Conference at quadrennial meetings of Methodism's top conferences since 1948. For eight years he rendered churchmanship service as the lay leader of the New York Conference. And for six years he was chairman of the Commission on World Service and Finance, the denomination's body which sets the fiscal policy for 350 parishes.

He is currently president of the Board of Directors of the Bethel Methodist Home, Ossining. Mr. Stromberg is a forceful speaker and well-informed in the area of Protestant faith, its development and impact on contemporary America. He is a church statesman of large stature and is articulate in his statements.

Participating in the services are the Rev. Mr. Harold J. Stephanz, host pastor; the Rev. Mr. W. Bernard Grossman, Methodist district superintendent; the Rev. Mr. William J. McVey, pastor, First Presbyterian Church. A union choir under the direction of Mrs. Willard Burke, will present sacred music.

Sees Cut Threat

Cooperative Asks Change in Order On Farmer Price

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — A producers' cooperative says a provision in the federal milk-marketing order threatens a cut in prices paid to farmers. It wants the provision amended.

The provision links the price paid in the New York-New Jersey milkshed for Class 1A (fluid) milk to that paid for milk delivered to condenseries in the Midwest.

The Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives said Friday the New York-New Jersey price had been at least $2.70 above Midwest prices since August.

The group petitioned the U. S. Agriculture Department to call a hearing to consider adjusting the price relationship "to further protect Order 27 producers from a class 1 price reduction." Order 27 regulates prices in the New York-New Jersey milkshed.

The Agriculture Department is required to hold a hearing, or give reasons for not doing so, whenever the New York-New Jersey price is $2.50 or more above the Midwest level for three successive months.

Powerful School Is Need Today, Educator Says

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP) — Americans must develop a "tougher" school if education is to be powerful and effective, an educator said today.

Donald H. Ross, assistant education commissioner, spoke at the 43rd annual Professional Conference for Vocational and Practical Arts Education.

"A powerful education is neither gentle nor cheap," he said in a prepared speech.

"The powerful school would be a 'tough' school," he declared. "This school would teach more and teach harder. It would operate with a longer school day and a longer school year."

Ross said a larger staff, working longer and harder, would cost more and there would be additional operating costs.

"The powerful school which we hope will someday emerge is one where educational accidents do not occur," he said. "Pupil information would be so summarized, coordinated and used that no child would get lost or be maltreated."

Kellerhouse Death May Have Been Accidental: Report

Coroner Francis J. McCordle reported this morning that certain circumstances indicated that the death of Lewis Kellerhouse, 81, of West Hurley, may have been accidental.

It was reported that Kellerhouse had died as the result of a self-inflicted gun shot wound sometime Tuesday when his body was found in the wooded area on the premises by his son, Raymond.

At the time of the interrogation, the coroner was told by members of the family that Kellerhouse, who lived alone, had been despondent since the death of his wife two years ago.

Funeral services were scheduled for this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Lasher Funeral Home, Woodstock, with the Rev. Richard R. Guice, of Ashokan, pastor of Glenford-West Hurley Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery, Woodstock.

Canon Law Is More Lenient

Election of Pope Bound By Strict Informal Law

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Religion Writer

Chances are the solemn Vatican conclave that opens today will wind up in a day or two with the selection of an Italian cardinal as the new Pope.

It doesn't have to be that way. Canon law places remarkably few restrictions on the election of a spiritual head for the Roman Catholic Church. He need only be a male Catholic who has reached the age of reason unscathed by heresy or schism.

The informal rules, however, are strict.

Italian Popes Since 1553

There has not been a non-Italian pope in more than four centuries, not since the Dutch-born Adrian VI ascended the papal throne in 1553 for a reign that lasted little more than a year.

The last noncardinal to be chosen was the unfortunate Urban VI, whose election in 1378 was declared invalid three months later by the cardinals who elected him. They claimed they voted under duress.

The revocation opened what is known as the Western Schism when, for 39 years, Western Christendom was confused by the presence of two—and at one point three—rival claimants to the papacy.

Even Laymen Popes

There even have been laymen popes. The last of whom apparently was St. Celestine V, an ascetic lay monk elected in 1294. He resigned after five months when he found himself ill-equipped to handle the office.

It is generally agreed among Catholics that the Pope to be elected in the next few days will be the 262nd successor to St. Peter, founder of the Roman Church. But no one can make the statement with absolute certainty.

It depends on how you count. Stephen II, who was elected on March 23, 752, and died two days later before his ordination. In those days the pope's reign was dated from ordination. Now it starts with election.

It also depends on how you count Benedict IX, who was elected in 1033 at the age of 12, deposed in 1044, reinstated the following year, removed again after a 20-day reign, and installed a third time in 1047.

amounted to .107 per cent of the loans guaranteed.

On loans outstanding for 10 years, this had dropped to .002 per cent of the loans guaranteed. Claims on no-down-payment transactions with down payments during the early life of the loans but still amounted to only .191 per cent of the total loans guaranteed.

Down payments were made by about three-fourths of the veterans making GI loans, the records reveal.

If the experience to date is applied to loans now outstanding, Sheehan said, the most critical period for serious defaults on loans made prior to 1955 has passed. While the incidence of claims on loans made in recent years will be sustained for another year or two, the default experience thereafter should show a marked decline. As the age of all loans now on the books of lenders increases, the default experience should approach negligible proportions.

This prognosis, of course, is predicted on the assumption that there will be no material change in economic or other conditions from those which existed during the history of the program to date, Sheehan said.

Monticello Man Drowning Victim

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP) — Charles Steigman, 54, drowned Friday when a boat sank in Swinging Bridge Reservoir.

Steigman had been fishing with William Zank, a son-in-law, and a friend, Irving Paul. The latter two managed to get to shore.

The survivors told police their 14-foot boat, with a powerful outboard motor, suddenly sank when the motor was reversed.

Authorities said Steigman, ironically, was the only one of the three who could swim well.

Slain Year Ago Silence Still Shrouds Death Of Anastasia

NEW YORK (AP) — A year ago today, underworld assassins wiped out the master of their trade, Albert (Boom Boom) Anastasia, mobster, big-shot racketeer, gangland's most notorious killer.

The sensational slaying sent repercussions through the criminal world, and spurred an array of investigations—by legislative committees, grand jurors, federal, city and state officers.

But so far, the underworld's tight-lipped wall of silence that cloaked Anastasia in life has also shrouded his death.

Probe Still On

"Anything we've learned has been the hard way," said Inspector James B. Leggett, chief of New York City detectives. "It's still an open investigation, and it's being actively pursued."

A host of theories have been advanced as the motive behind the killing, most of them involving criminal vying for power, but none has been substantiated. "If I had a firm opinion on it," Leggett said, "I'd have a prison."

Hundreds of hoodlums, big operators and small-fry thugs, have been picked up across the country and questioned, but most of them have had little to say, or have refused to say anything.

Anastasia, who rose from the strong-arm rackets on Brooklyn's waterfront to become the "lord high executioner" of the old Murder Inc., mob and a power in the high echelons of crime, was shot down in a hotel barber shop.

Barber Chair Death

A stocky man of 55, he had just settled into barber chair No. 4 in mid-Manhattan's Park Sheraton Hotel on the morning of Oct. 25, 1957, when two masked men strode in, flanked him on either side, and began firing.

It was a thoroughly professional killing, a kind with which Anastasia had been expertly familiar during the ruthless career that made him a feared man among his underworld cohorts.

Not quite three weeks after Anastasia fell, the so-called "crime convention" was held on Nov. 14, 1957, at Apalachin, a gathering of approximately 65 shadowy characters, many of them linked high in crime.

Authorities suspected a connection. Was this a meeting to divide the spoils, to reapportion the criminal empire after the demise of one of its kings? Was it to realign channels of command and operations?

All Move Reaction

A state legislative rackets committee struggled to pry loose some of the answers, but it got mostly mute reaction from persons who had attended the meeting.

A grand jury and police had the same experience.

Some investigators, including federal narcotics agents, called the meeting a conference of the Mafia, the Italian criminal society in whose traditions Anastasia was steeped as a native of that country.

Several participants in the meeting admitted having been intimates of Anastasia, but they took the Fifth Amendment, and fell silent at detailed questioning.

IBM Sells Time Data to Simplex

NEW YORK (AP)—The domestic time-equipment division of the International Business Machines Corp. at Endicott has been acquired by the Simplex Time Recorder Co. of Gardner, Mass.

The sale is effective Dec. 1.

IBM President T. J. Watson Jr. said Friday, products of the division being transferred to Simplex included time clocks, job recorders, master clock and central control systems and fire alarm equipment.

Watson said that, with expansion of data processing systems and electronic typewriters, products of the time-equipment division had become less compatible with IBM operations.

No details of the sale were disclosed.

Paul S. Wells, general manager of the division, will join Simplex as vice president for sales. Simplex said most of the key Endicott personnel would go to Gardner.

Tribute for Teddy

NEW YORK (AP)—New York members of the Army and Navy Union paid tribute to the late President Theodore Roosevelt to day amid activities commemorating the 100th anniversary of his birth.

Union members with relatives and friends gathered at the house at 28 East 20th St., Manhattan, where Roosevelt was born Oct. 27, 1958.

They then went to the Roosevelt home and grave at Oyster Bay on Long Island.

Activities there included a memorial service and the placing of a wreath and a bronze plaque on the grave. Roosevelt was a member of the Army and Navy Union, joining in 1907.

Can't Make Debate

MALONE, N. Y. (AP)—Republican Assemblyman Robert Main said today he would be unable to come to Albany and debate the state's milk-dealer licensing with Agriculture Commissioner Daniel J. Carey. Main suggested the two meet over a television station in Plattsburgh.

On Thursday, Democrat Carey accepted a challenge to debate the Malone lawyer. Carey suggested they could tape-record the debate at his Albany office and have it broadcast statewide.

NEW YORK STATE NURSE WEEK

It is winter 1854, in a base hospital at Scutari, across the strait from Constantinople. A tall attractive woman with a little lamp in her hand passes through the miles of prostrate sick. As she moves through the corridor, every poor fellow's face softens with gratitude at the sight of her.

Her name is Florence Nightingale. And this base hospital is where her name first becomes a synonym for gentleness, efficiency and heroism.

From October 26 through 31, New York State will pay tribute to modern nursing during "Nurse Week."

The week's observance affords all an opportunity to honor the nurse for her daily contributions to the health and welfare of our own families and the families of our neighbors.

Here is an opportunity to dedicate ourselves, for a brief time, to a group which is dedicating a lifetime to us.

HOPEFULNESS—FOR A CHANGE

For the first time in more than five months, the prospect of genuine internal calm exists in Lebanon. If the situation holds, it will amount to the most hopeful improvement in the Middle Eastern picture in a long time.

Originally it was felt that the department of the controversial former President Chamoun from office in mid-September would signal the end of Lebanon's turmoil. It did not.

The new president, Fuad Chehab, touched off fresh outbreaks by naming Rashid Karami, one of the rebel leaders, as premier. Thereafter a cabinet heavily weighed with Moslems was established.

Outraged, the Christian supporters of Chamoun took to the barricades, fostered political strikes and otherwise acted to continue the chaos and paralysis which had plagued the country through the troubled summer.

Since Lebanon is sharply divided in population between Christians and Moslems, the situation suggested that the strife might drag on and on without a solution satisfactory to either element.

Just when a note of hopelessness seemed to be creeping in, however, there was a sudden flurry among Lebanon's leaders. First it was reported Karami had resigned, but this proved false. What has happened is that he has reorganized his cabinet to produce an even division of Christians and Moslems, all of them moderates.

After so much bitterness and violence, it would be foolhardy to predict that this move will surely bring lasting internal peace. Yet the early signs are good.

All factions appear to have approved the cabinet shifts. The barricades were coming down. Beirut, the capital, was almost normal as shops that have been closed all or most of the time since May opened for business. There were no reports of fighting.

If good sense can indeed prevail at last in Lebanon, a tiny country where religion so clearly divided the people, men may find renewed hope for solution of the Middle East's larger problems embracing the Arabs and Jews and the relation of the whole region to West and East.

All that would seem to be needed now is for President Nasser of the United Arab Republic to keep his hands off to allow time for this new-found peace to become a habit among the strife-weary Lebanese.

TRY A NEW RUT

Spring Byington, who is over 60 but young, says that the main symptom of age is the dread of change. The mother-in-law in television's "December Bride," who is now learning Portuguese, might have put it another way: "Don't let habit suffocate you. Keep out of a rut."

Routine is easy and inviting. Habit is cozy and comforting. But there is abundant evidence that youth is not retained merely by eight hours of sleep a night and a

THE HATE SHEET

Racial problems in the United States are sufficiently complicated without adding to them the ugliness of hate propaganda. What arises out of 300 years of American history and tradition need not be stirred to tragedy by exaggeration and falsehood. It was reported that in cities where synagogue bombings occurred, a hate sheet, "Common Sense," edited by Conde McGinley, was distributed. Hate sheets, generally, seek to tie together prejudice against negroes with prejudice against Jews, so that it is possible to hate two groups at once.

This particular one consisted of a single sheet of news print, with printed matter on both sides. The main headline reads: "Zionists Control NAACP." The subhead reads "The NAACP, supposedly a negro organization, is controlled by Asiatic Marxist Jews who do not have the welfare of the negro at heart! They use the negro to create strife and disorder—the oldest trick in the book—divide and conquer!"

The big lie in all this is that the Zionist movement has nothing whatsoever to do with American problems but deals only with the establishment of a Jewish state in Israel. Historically it can go back to any period in the Bible, or to the Bar Kochba Revolt (132-135) against Rome, or to the Basle Congress called by Dr. Theodor Herzl (1897). Zionism is the exact opposite of Communism, for whereas the latter is based upon dialectical materialism and is atheistic, Zionism is based upon the Biblical promise of God to Abraham concerning the land of Canaan.

The central feature of page 1 of "Common Sense" is a strip containing the photographs of negro leaders, namely Channing Tobias, Hulan E. Jack, Dr. Ralph Bunche, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., W. E. B. DuBois, Thurgood Marshall, Roy Wilkins. The contention is that these negro leaders are Communists and under their names are listed a number of pro-Communist citations. No source is quoted; no names of organizations appear.

The printed matter accompanying these photographs is extraordinarily inflammatory. Below are photographs of five Jews: Congressman Emanuel Celler, Herbert Lehman, Felix Frankfurter, Arthur Spingarn and Senator Jacob Javits. They are described as Marxists. To my knowledge, these men are not Marxists. Herbert Lehman, who had been Governor of the State of New York and a United States Senator, is described as "Most powerful in Marxist movements." This is not true. Of United States Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, "Common Sense" says: "This Zionist Jew rules the Supreme Court with an iron fist." This is obviously untrue in the very nature of the Supreme Court.

There is a picture of Dr. Louis Finkelstein and Chief Justice Earl Warren. The caption is "Warren Studies Talmudic Law Here." Dr. Louis Finkelstein is one of the great theologians of the world, a gentleman and a scholar, the author of many distinguished works.

I am sure that Justice Warren is not studying the Talmud or Jewish law. The Talmud appears in two series—the Jerusalem and the Babylonian. It is in Hebrew and Aramaic and employs the scholastic method to reach a conclusion. It requires profound study, taking much of a lifetime. Jewish law which Justice Warren is also supposed to be studying includes not only the Old Testament and the Talmud but also the Shulhan Aruch, Responsa of the Rabbis. It would take Mr. Justice Warren the rest of his life to learn the languages, Hebrew and Aramaic, and the literature of these studies. The publication of this picture in this hate sheet can only be designed to humiliate both Dr. Finkelstein and Chief Justice Warren by implications that are false.

The other side of the sheet is more of the same, ending in a photograph of a negro and a white woman under the caption, "Mongrelization Is the Goal." Then it says that "Here is the inevitable result of integration . . . I wonder if anyone has any statistics on the intermarriage of negroes and whites and the distribution of such marriages over the United States. I have sought such statistics in order to form some kind of a conclusion, but none seem to be available that can be accepted as authentic. It is understandable that such a photograph can stimulate antagonism in some areas, but no names are given as to the negro and white woman who are dancing together. Are they actors who posed for this picture or what is this? (Copyright, 1958, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Fear of Mistake Hampers Wife's Decisions as Parent

Several times this year Paul's father has openly declared his marriage to Paul's mother a "mistake."

As she's pretty unhappy, she needs nobody to tell her there's something wrong with the marriage. When Paul's father phones to say that he can't get home for dinner again, she hangs up thinking, "How long can we go on like this?" And the possibility that she has indeed made a mistake by marrying Paul's father overwhelms her with a terrifying sense of helplessness.

So within the past year Paul has gotten out of control.

If he's told to put on his sweater before going out, he'll say "Aw, leave me alone." As he runs out the screen door, his mother will stand at it, hesitating. Then after a minute she'll say to herself, "Oh well, maybe he doesn't need his sweater after all."

Paul's mother, frightened by the possibility that she's made a marital mistake, is now terrified by making mistakes as a parent.

Unhappily married parents are unusually susceptible to fear of discipline.

So if our marriage isn't working, it is wise to examine ourselves for this fear.

When we locate it, we might try asking ourselves these questions: "Have I always been terrified of making mistakes? Do I feel injured when other people don't agree with me? If I am criticized, do I become anxious and try to explain myself back into the critic's approval?"

If we are honest with ourselves, we will probably have to answer these questions with a "Yes." We'll be silly to be dishonest. For the chances are we need the truth very badly. We need to know that we've always been afraid of making mistakes.

Our fear of controlling Paul is just another example of our old fear of making mistakes. We can begin to overcome it by watching it operate in us at the screen door. As Paul runs out leaving in our hands the sweater he should be wearing, we can say to ourselves, "I've let this seven-year-old make this decision to protect me against making a wrong one."

The rest will not be so hard.

diet sufficient in protein, vitamins and minerals.

Plato spoke well when he declared that "he who is of a calm and happy nature will hardly feel the pressure of age." But he did not say it all. Neither is the pressure of age felt when life has mission and purpose and variety, when it continues to hold adventure and surprise, and doesn't sink into habit.

"Habit converts luxurious enjoyments into dull and daily necessities," according to Aldous Huxley. Miss Byington certainly would agree.

Washington News

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A key passage in United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld's report on establishment of a UN police force to maintain peace raised the point of who would pay for it. This is the big catch.

The secretary general did not envision creation of a permanent force under UN command, ready to be ordered into trouble spots on instant notice at all times.

Mr. Hammarskjöld's proposal was to ask nations what forces they would be ready to maintain on a standby basis. None of these forces would be stationed in another country without its consent. No forces would be drawn from the Big Four members of the security council. But no country would be exempted from paying its share of the costs of preserving peace, whether it contributed troops or not.

This is probably one of the most important and constructive proposals before the United Nations as it observes the 12th anniversary of United Nations Day, Oct. 24.

FOR 1958, THE UNITED STATES was assessed $9,690,000 and made additional voluntary contributions of $9,750,000.

Not one U. S. soldier is involved in this operation. The UN is made up of about 5,000 men from Brazil, Canada, Colombia, Denmark, Finland, India, Norway, Sweden, Yugoslavia.

But take a look at the assessments to maintain this force, and who is in arrears on payments.

Only 16 of the 81 UN members have paid their 1958 assessments in full, and only 25 have paid their 1957 assessments in full. Those whose accounts are now square are Canada, Ceylon, Colombia, Dominican Republic, Finland, Guatemala, Haiti, Israel, Laos, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Norway, Sweden, Thailand and the United States.

Three more have made partial payments this year—Australia, Liberia and the Netherlands. But 62 countries haven't paid a dime on 1958 assessments, including all the Communist bloc countries. And 34 have paid

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The following letter is an answer to one I wrote to the Smithsonian Institution on whether they would have any exhibits or items pertaining to Kingston or Ulster County history. The letter from the United States National Museum reads as follows: "Your letter dated Sept. 1, 1958, to the Smithsonian Institution has been referred to the Department of Civil History for reply."

Then they go on to say: "Charles G. Dorman, assistant curator of the division of political history, tells me that Ulster County figures rather prominently in a current exhibit at the United States National Museum. The 'illegitimate offspring' of the Ulster County Gazette have been assembled in a case by reprint dates. The case bears the label: 'Do You Have an Ulster County Gazette?'"

As 'discoveries' of Ulster County Gazettes are an almost daily occurrence in our correspondence, we have decided to form a study collection of as many different issues as possible. We are enclosing an information circular from the Library of Congress pertaining to the Ulster County Gazette which may be of interest to you."

The letter further states: "In the collection of the Division of Political History is a fine needlework memorial to Alexander Hamilton, done shortly after his death by a young lady of the Kingston area as a school project. This memorial picture was presented to us by Mrs. Emily Crane Chadbourne of Kingston. We understand that Mrs. Chadbourne collects material about John Vanderlyn, the artist. A photograph of the Alexander Hamilton needlework memorial may be purchased from the Division of Political History for 75 cents."

It seems that our little Ulster County Gazette and all its reprints have finally achieved national fame and a place in the United States Museum, yet I understand Samuel Freer, the Kingston publisher died broke, yet his printed words live on and are read some 150 years after him. Of course that copy had the coverage of President Washington's funeral and was well written. The only copy of it I ever remember displayed in a store in Kingston was at Dr. Allan J. Segal's optometrist window at 42 Broadway, Rondout. Perhaps he has it on his wall in his new office at 265 Washington Avenue now. Dr. Segal was a newcomer to Kingston then, yet realized its interest and placed it into a glass frame and fitted it so that folks passing by could read it. Many looked at it. A lady once loaned me an original 1819 Gazette as I remember, made no doubt from the same paper as the original 1800, January 4 which all the collectors are looking for.

Lately I have received news items from readers who are living in Florida where someone found a reprint of the famous Hamilton needlework memorial. "The commercial value of the reprints is very small," the circular reads from the museum.

A House It Not a Home—Not With This Kind of Woman

Which is more important—your house or your family?

Any woman asked that question would indignantly reply, "My family, of course."

But some women have a mighty funny way of showing that the family is more important than "things."

These are the women who make a child feel like a criminal if he unintentionally breaks a vase or spills a glass of milk.

They are the ones who think the living room is too good to be used by the family.

They are the ones who think of a house as something with which to impress friends and neighbors, instead of as a comfortable, convenient, attractive shelter for the family.

They are the ones who have beautiful big yards in which their children aren't allowed to play baseball or football for fear that the grass might develop worn spots.

They are the ones who so intent on keeping their houses looking perfect, they are never happy unless the children are somewhere else. To them, children make work and clutter and spoil the perfect picture of a perfectly kept house.

They would never admit that their houses are more important than their families. But daily their actions say that they are.

Parties Stepup Quest for Votes In Farm Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vice President Nixon barnstormed in the Midwest today as both Republicans and Democrats stepped up their quest for farm belt votes.

Meanwhile top leaders of both parties denounced anew the use of smear tactics and hate mongering. Democrats contend both are on an upswing as the campaign goes into its final days.

Nixon, extending his Midwest campaigning to include a visit to Michigan, traveled to South Dakota and Nebraska today after a whirlwind tour of Wisconsin. He goes to Minnesota Sunday and to Michigan Monday.

Nixon Notes Boom

Renewing his broadsides against "radical" Democrats, Nixon said in Eau Claire, Wis., that the nation is "headed for its greatest boom in history if we continue the sound progressive economic policies of the Eisenhower administration."

But he said if the "radicals" gain control there will be a runaway Congress. "And the American people will pay the bill in runaway spending, runaway taxes and runaway prices," Nixon said.

Assessing GOP prospects in the farm belt, Nixon later told reporters he thinks the Republicans have a better chance than four years ago when midwestern losses cost them control of Congress.

"The farmers are much happier than they were in 1954," Nixon said. "Republican chances look better this year than they did then."

Both parties concentrated on Wisconsin Friday. Arriving there as Nixon was leaving, Secretary of Agriculture Benson joined the vice president in attacking what Benson called left wing Democrats.

Benson, en route to a speaking engagement at Alma in northwest Wisconsin today, told a Milwaukee news conference Friday night: "If Democrats come into power there will be domination within the party by left wing elements whose social philosophy is even to the left of the discredited New Deal."

At La Crosse, Wis., Benson denounced reports he wouldn't support the reelection bid of Sen. Edward J. Thyne (R-Minn.) because Thyne isn't backing Benson's farm policies.

"A vicious distortion of the truth," Benson asserted. The secretary conceded he and Thyne have differed on farm policy but said he regards Thyne as an outstanding senator.

"I am privileged to recommend Republican Senator Edward Thyne to the voters of Minnesota," Benson added.

Following Nixon into Madison, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) predicted the farm vote will "make the difference in more congressional races than the Republicans like to think about."

Meanwhile Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla.), chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, said "The political missile which launched a new Ike has misfired."

Returning to Washington from a campaign swing in West Virginia, Smathers said:

Says Ike Is 'Lost'
"Ike has abdicated his public image while Richard Nixon is back in his true orbit. The President is lost in a strange role."

The national chairman of both parties, meanwhile, deplored campaigning based on racial or religious issues.

Democratic Chairman Paul Butler said he has written Chairman Charles P. Taft of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee to protest antisemitic, anti-labor and similar material he said has been used against some Democratic candidates.

Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn, without mentioning Butler's complaint, also wired Taft that "the Republican party endorses without qualification or reservation your statement warning the public against election campaigns based on racial or religious hate mongering."

During his Wisconsin tour, Nixon ran into some heckling at Madison. With some irritation, he told some youths who hoisted hostile signs that he had been heckled by experts in South America.

The White House, meanwhile, announced that President Eisenhower will indulge in some political activities in New York Tuesday. The nature of these activities was not disclosed.

Eisenhower will fly to New York Monday night after a brief appearance at Charleston, W. Va., and an 11-state television broadcast from Pittsburgh on behalf of GOP congressional candidates.

Canada Slows Entry Of U. S. Engineers

NEW YORK—Canada is slowing down on the entry of U. S. engineers, because some Canadian engineers are being displaced from their jobs, reports Engineering News-Record, McGraw-Hill publication.

The Canadian move is not a new policy. It involves more rigid use of procedures and policies already available.

The Dominion Department of Citizenship and Immigration told the magazine: "Canada maintains the right to determine who will be admitted to the country."

Except for citizens and residents of Canada, all applicants for admission are dealt with as immigrants or non-immigrants. An immigrant—admitted for permanent residence—may practice his trade or profession. But non-immigrants—persons granted temporary entry—may work only in those jobs for which qualified Canadians are not readily available.

Last of U.S. Troops Leave Beirut Area

BEIRUT (AP)—The last American troops left Lebanon by air this morning, nearly a week ahead of schedule.

An Army detachment of about 10 men is staying another month to adjust Army claims.

The last of the troops slipped out quietly with no official announcement made. The United States had agreed to get all its troops out by Oct. 31.

American forces landed in Lebanon July 15, when the Middle East crisis was at its hottest. At the peak, U. S. land forces in Lebanon numbered more than 13,000. They were not used in combat operations while here.

Sax Player Sits Over 50 Hours For 99-Cent Car

His stamina and perseverance report still unyielding at noon today, a local musician appeared only three hours away from owning a car for 99 cents at the Kingston Buick Co. Inc. used car lot on Albany Avenue Extension.

"Chubby" Mason, of 67 Van Buren Street, had been in possession of the car for a total of 52½ hours at noon—since Thursday at 7 a. m.

Ephraim Propp, used car manager, described Mason as "a little disheveled, worn out and cold, but still staying with it."

The car for 99 cents is one of the features of a "big 99 three day" used car sale at the Buick lot.

To purchase the 1951 Oldsmobile 4-door sedan for 99 cents, the purchaser must be in possession of the car at 3 p. m. today.

It appeared likely that Mason, a saxophone and bass player with the Quintones orchestra at the Tropical Inn, Port Ewen, would be the new owner.

Propp said Mason has been brought food by friends since he started his long endurance grind Thursday morning, and he last ate at 3 a. m. today when John Pulverenti, owner of the Port Ewen night club, brought him a meal.

Painter Injured In Saugerties Water Tower Fall

Joseph Gatti, 21, of Memphis, Tenn., who reportedly fell approximately 20 feet from a water tower at a Saugerties manufacturing plant Friday afternoon, was reported in "apparently good" condition at Kingston Hospital this morning.

Willett C. Baldwin, superintendent of Tissue Engineering Corp., 101st Avenue, Saugerties, told The Freeman this morning that Gatti, an employee of Dixie Tank and Bridge Company, Memphis, Tenn., was painting the tower when he fell from the first section about 20 feet from the ground. The tower is 90 feet high.

Baldwin called Dr. Lester Sonking and H. S. Ambulance of Saugerties who took Gatti to Kingston Hospital. The incident happened about 4 p. m.

48 Cardinals . . .

denn errors from wherever they come.

"He will have to be a pastor of souls. He will have to bring together in one embrace the Western and Eastern churches."

Belongs to All
"He will also have to be a father. When one is called to the supreme pontificate he no longer belongs to himself nor to a single people but to all peoples."

"His heart, inflamed with love, will have to beat particularly tenderly, especially for peoples oppressed by an absolute, tyrannical and persecuting power and also for those social classes which find themselves still in such grave circumstances and misery that not even with the sweat of their brows can they obtain for themselves and their families sufficient food and hospitable shelter. He will have to take to his heart, even like Jesus Christ, the cause of the poor and distressed."

"The rights of human labor, which already have been stated solemnly in encyclicals and other documents, will have to be certainly interpreted by him with every means at his disposal."

It could be a dangerous thing not to translate into full practice the social doctrine of the Church."

The two cardinals absent were Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary, who was refused a safe conduct by the Communist government to leave his refuge in the U. S. embassy for the conclave, and Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac who would not leave his native village in Yugoslavia for fear of not being allowed to return.

Says Soviet Loan To Egypt Heaviest Blow Yet to West

VREDEBURG, South Africa (AP)—South African Defense Minister Francois C. Erasmus said here Friday that the Russian loan to Egypt for construction of the Aswan Dam was the heaviest blow the Western Powers had yet received in Africa.

Russia has done what the United States and Britain refused to do and has thus found a foothold and anchor in Africa, Erasmus stated. "It is a black day for us," he added.

Riela Is Fined, Gets Sentence on Apalachin Stand

OWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—A 60-day jail term and a $4,250 fine has been imposed on Anthony P. Riela, one of the many silent witnesses who refused to tell a grand jury what they knew of the Apalachin gangland convention.

Judge Francis J. Clohessey of Tioga County Court sentenced the 61-year-old New Jersey motel operator Friday on 17 counts of contempt. He was ordered to pay $250 and serve 60 days on each count. However the jail terms will run concurrently.

Will Appeal Case
The sentence was stayed, however, while Riela appeals in State Supreme Court. He is free on $5,000 bail until Dec. 22.

Riela, one of four grand jury witnesses indicted for contempt, is the first to be sentenced. The cases of two others are pending and one, Roy Carlisi, 49, of Buffalo, is challenging the legality of the indictment.

Riela, of West Orange, was asked before sentencing whether he had anything to say.

Opening his hands, Riela said: "I've never been a criminal. I am not one now and I don't intend to be one in the future."

Clohessey, stating that Riela had no previous conviction and was a successful business man, said: "I can't overlook the fact that you refused to answer the questions put to you by the grand jury."

Others Indicted
Besides Riela and Carlisi, the grand jury has indicted Dominick D'Agostino of Niagara Falls and Frank Zito of Springfield, Ill.

A motion connected with Carlisi's challenge of the jury indictment was turned down Friday by Clohessey because Carlisi was not in court. Federal Narcotics officials, who have been trying to serve a subpoena on him to appear before a federal grand jury, say they cannot find him.

Clohessey said Carlisi should appear personally before him Nov. 3.

Steady Upturn

sy directors were guided in their decision by the improved business outlook.

Two of the nation's biggest oil companies also reported signs of improving business. Standard Oil Co. (N.J.) and Socony Mobil Oil Co. each reported nine-month earnings down sharply (30 per cent for Jersey and 34 per cent for Socony) from a year ago.

Each, however, boasted a solid gain over the two prior quarters for the July-August-September period.

The companies had a ready explanation for the decline in earnings from last year: they sold more oil products, including gasoline, but at lower prices.

Prices made oil news this week. The government announced that its consumer price index, which is supposed to measure what it costs you to live, failed to show an increase last month. This in itself is news, because the index until August had climbed steadily for two years.

It has failed to go up now for two months straight. Best guess is that the government's index is that the index may edge up a bit in October and then hold steady for the next six months. In explaining how it arrived at its September index (123.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average) the government said increases in the cost of clothing, transportation and medical care were offset by lower food prices.

While big cost cuts are about 2.1 per cent on average from a year ago, buying power of the U. S. factory worker has more than kept pace. That's because his wages have climbed faster than the consumer price index.

As government economists figure it, average take-home pay of the U. S. factory worker set a record high last month. For a government index of his income, it was $77.25 a week, after federal income and Social Security taxes.

Stock sales in the latest week totaled 19,463,614 shares compared to 24,402,570 shares in the previous week and 20,804,199 in the corresponding week last year.

Bond sales had a par value of $26,081,500 in the latest week compared to $33,025,000 the week before and $33,989,000 in the same 1957 week.

Briefly over the business scene: Ford Motor Co. produced a brand new Model T this week. Ford says the 22-horsepower job, an exact replica of the twin-lever "Tin Lizzie" of 1908, has an antique value of about $5,000. . . . Officials of the Popular Price Shoe Show of America (PPSSA) predict Americans will buy four billion dollars worth of shoes, sandals, sneakers, rubbers and boots next year—a new record. The estimate includes 600 million pairs of shoes and 70 million pairs of rubber and rubber canvas footwear. . . . Corporate dividend payments in September were down only two per cent from a year ago.

Archbishop Dies

Pope Pius XII Oct. 9. Celso Cardinal Costantini, 82, died Oct. 12. Cardinal Mooney's death leaves only two cardinals in the United States—Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles.

Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, died in Rome May 27 shortly after his arrival to take the important position of prefect of the Vatican's Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

Jaycees After '59 State Parley Chamber Ready to Assist In Getting Conventions

The convention and visitors committee of the Kingston Committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce today issued an invitation to all local citizens to help in the development of a prospect list of conventions which might be induced to meet here in the future.

This announcement follows a meeting of the committee held Thursday at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A spokesman stated that "several new conventions have already been scheduled but we need many more before their economic value can actually be measured and recognized."

The committee believes that the best way to obtain conventions is to have local members of the state or national organizations extend the invitations. The Chamber of Commerce is ready to work with and help any local person who would extend such an invitation.

An excellent illustration is the attendance of several local representatives of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, including their president, Morton Gazlay, at a state convention to meet here next year. The items taken along to help induce them to meet here include a large sign, eight feet long and three feet wide, with the inscription "Kingston Next," made available by the convention committee.

A special permanent file of conventions held and conventions held and convention prospects is being developed. The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce would be pleased to receive pertinent information about prospective conventions, leave and branches in an apparent desperate attempt to make the river.

But before it reached the water it blew apart with a tremendous explosion.

"It sounded like it would take the roof right off the house," said a witness. "There was this terrible thunderclap and then the plane burst into a big ball of fire. The whole sky turned red."

The British Air Ministry in London said the ship was from the 83rd Squadron of the Royal Air Force Bomber Command based at Waddington Air Base near Lincoln, England.

Its captain, Flt. Lt. John Wiloughby Moore, carried a message of good will from the mayor of that city to the mayor of Lincoln, Neb., near headquarters of the U. S. Strategic Air Command.

The rest of the crew were not identified.

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—The Independent-Socialist Party's fight to stay on the Nov. 4 statewide ballot is over. It will be listed.

The Court of Appeals, the state's highest tribunal, held Friday that the party's slate should be on the ballot.

This means four parties will be listed—the Republicans, Democrats, Liberals and Independent-Socialists.

Setback for Democrats
The 5-2 decision, which upheld lower court rulings, represented a setback to the state's Democratic organization, which had sought to oust the Socialists. Many Democrats felt that the party would draw left-wing votes that otherwise might go to the Liberal or Democratic candidates.

Socialist Campaign Chairman Henry Abrams said the court's ruling "has put to rest Carmine DeSapio's unworthy scheme."

The Socialists have a full slate of candidates. Their man for governor is John T. McManus. Corliss Lamont is the U. S. Senate nominee. Lamont thus becomes the third millionaire to run for statewide office this year.

The Independent-Socialists had been ruled off the ballot by DeSapio, who is secretary of state, on the grounds that some of its nomination petitions were invalid. DeSapio also is leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

A new party must file nominating petitions bearing at least 12,000 signatures, including at least 50 from each of the 62 counties in the state.

Two Kingston Men Are Fined for Gas Theft

Two Kingston men have been fined a total of $50 in cases of petit larceny involving the theft of gasoline from construction trucks in the Town of Olive, at was announced today by Ulster County sheriff's office.

The two are George Planthaber, 24, of 100 Hoffman Street and his cousin, Donald Planthaber, 23, of 135 Broadway. They were arrested before Justice of the Peace Frank Carle of Ashokan, entered a plea of guilty and paid fines of $25 each.

County Investigator Arthur H. Brown said that a teenage girl, whose name was withheld, acted as lookout. Her case will be disposed of later.

The charges arose out of theft of gasoline in the night of September 29 from trucks owned by Steve Smith of Glen Street which are working at the construction site of a bridge over a small stream on the Watson Hollow-Sundown Road. Contractor for the bridge is James Bernardi of Kingston.

Working on the case with Brown were Sheriff Claude Bell, Under-Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg and Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone.

Two Charges . . .
In the cell were broken and fresh paint had been marked up.

Donald Kidney pleaded guilty to the "disorderly conduct charge and will be sentenced Oct. 28 at 7 p. m. Holmes case and that of Cornelius Kidney were both adjourned to the same date. The three were represented by Attorney Harry Gold.

Case Adjourned
Raymond Plough, 47, of 440 Washington Avenue, was arrested Friday at 11:20 p. m. on two third degree assault charges. He was arrested on Field Court near Broadway on complaints of Jeanne Smith and Frederick J. Schisky.

Plough's case was put over to Oct. 28 at 7 p. m. to permit him time to obtain counsel and he was committed to the Ulster County jail in lieu of $100 bail.

Six Lose Lives In Detroit Crash Of British Plane

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DETROIT (AP)—A British jet bomber on a combined good will and training mission exploded and crashed in flames in a riverfront residential area here Friday.

Six crewmen were believed to have died in the inferno.

Three homes were demolished. Another dozen were set afire and at least a score more were damaged in the downpour of flaming wreckage and blazing oil.

Two on Ground Hurt

Almost unbelievably, only two residents suffered serious enough injuries to require hospital treatment.

Trailing smoke and flame, the triangular delta-wing Vulcan roared tree-top high, clipping leaves and branches in an apparent desperate attempt to make the river.

But before it reached the water it blew apart with a tremendous explosion.

"It sounded like it would take the roof right off the house," said a witness. "There was this terrible thunderclap and then the plane burst into a big ball of fire. The whole sky turned red."

The British Air Ministry in London said the ship was from the 83rd Squadron of the Royal Air Force Bomber Command based at Waddington Air Base near Lincoln, England.

Fleury Estate Is Awarded $32,500

A verdict totaling $32,500 was returned Friday shortly before 6 p. m. in favor of the executors of the estate of Joseph Fleury, late of Windson, who was injured in an automobile accident near Pine Bush in October 1955. Mr. Fleury, 61, died April 1, 1957, and it was alleged his death was due to the accident.

The action in Supreme Court was brought against Morris Edwards, Town of Wawarsing. John A. Bonomi appeared for plaintiff and Cook and Cook for defendant. In a unanimous verdict the jury awarded $13,100 for pain and suffering of plaintiff prior to his death and $19,400 for wrongful death, loss of services and expenses.

Once the jury sought advice of the court while deliberating. The jurors asked that a portion of the testimony of deceased given before a Motor Vehicle Bureau hearing be read again to them. It was in regard to his testimony on position of the cars after the accident. After the testimony had been re-read, the jury resumed its deliberations.

Sergeant Is Killed In Auto-Train Crash

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—A Hunter Air Force Base sergeant was killed and four airmen from Plattsburgh Air Force Base, N.Y., were injured in an automobile-freight train collision here early today.

Staff Sgt. Louis L. Lopez was pronounced dead on arrival at Hunter base hospital.

Study Improves Women's Skill as Home Decorators

Can every woman learn to be her own decorator?

In a sense, she already is if she's the one to decide what goes in a room. By putting shapes and pattern and color there, she's decorating the room even though the effect seems to be hardly more than of furnishing. How can she learn to like what she does?

Talent for decorating can be developed, although to varying degrees, just as is true of art or music. The consultation of a professional decorator should be considered for the same reasons that other professionals are consulted because they have more knowledge and experience, and more skill.

But the woman who is so inclined can learn a great deal, and the best way to start is by using her eyes, really using them and studying what she sees.

Look at home furnishings displays in the stores, at model rooms, everything in the papers and magazines, find out all you can. Try to decide why some of it is better than the rest.

In three months time you can find out much about how you're progressing if you have made that time a period of serious application. Check after three months on what you like and understand against what you did at the beginning, and you may be amazed at how much you learned.

The 'Granada' . . . Beauty and Luxury In a Ranch House

Rooms . . . . . Six
Bedrooms . . . . . Two or Three
Closets . . . . . Seven
Cubage . . . . . 39,100
Dimensions . . . . . 65' x 40'

Today's house seems to have luxury and fine living written in every line. And as you study this six room ranch type, you'll find both in good measure—plus spaciousness and excellent design. The "Granada" is a selection of the Home of the Week Plan Service.

Note should be taken of how well this house has been adapted to a sloping lot. With the chimney and picture window at the right, the effect is one of complete blending into the landscape. Plantings and the fine expanse of lawn add much to the impression of fine living.

While the window area in the front is great, the outside can be completely cut off by shades on the small windows and heavy draperies on the larger windows.

Sleeping Area

As is should be, the sleeping area is in the rear, providing privacy and quiet. Doors to both bedrooms open several feet down the hallway to further separate the rooms from other parts of the house. The bathroom is at the end of the hallway with handy linen closet just outside.

Each bedroom has twin windows pleasantly overlooking the yard in back, and single windows on the sides for cross ventilation and good lighting.

Just inside the front door there's a foyer-like space. From it, on the right, a single step leads into a long, luxurious living room. At the far right is a fireplace for cheer and warmth on cool days. But the high window which dominates the front with a pleasant view of green grass and shrubs.

Family Room

To the left of the foyer is that wonderful development for relaxed living, the family room. Here, in a room made especially attractive by a window with twenty small panes, is ample space for play. The home-maker will very likely put the television set here and let the living room run more to the formal side.

The dining room can't help but be cheerful with three windows giving a flood of light and a fine view of the landscaped

Child's Room Must Change With Needs

Flexibility is second only to comfort and convenience in a child's room, which must change to meet its requirements throughout his formative years. During the early "writing" age, part of the wall area can be converted into a blackboard by covering the existing lower wall with tempered presdwood, sealing it and applying chalkboard paint. Later, this panel can be turned into an attractive wainscot by painting over the chalkboard surface.

"Peg-Board" panels, too, are a boon to parents who appreciate every bit of storage space for toys and clothes. By simply moving hooks to new locations on these perforated panels, you can arrange hobby displays, book shelves and other functional and decorative schemes.

Plaster in Ceilings, Walls Slows Fire

Plaster used in walls and ceilings acts as a moisture barrier that retards the spread of fire for at least an hour, according to the Massachusetts Bureau for Lathing and Plastering, Inc., of Boston.

Gypsum plaster is mixed with water and sand or other aggregates and it is applied wet to lath which forms the wall and ceiling surfaces. The plaster dries in a short time but retains some moisture within the material.

If a fire should contact the surface of plaster, it must drive off the internal moisture before the wall will become hot enough to cause combustible material on the side of the plaster away from the fire to ignite.

Even in cases of continuous, intense heat, this moisture barrier prevents the spread of fire for an hour or more for standard gypsum lath and plaster walls. The bureau pointed out that plaster itself will not burn because it is made of non-combustible gypsum rock.

Tentative Pact Made In Sylvania Strike

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A tentative agreement has been reached to end a 17-week strike at the Sylvania Electric Products Inc. plant.

The International Union of Electrical Workers came to an oral agreement with management Friday night. Negotiators planned to write a new contract today.

About 500 union members will go back to work if the membership ratifies the agreement. Details of the settlement were not disclosed.

Overtricks Are Skill's Reward

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Alan Bell of Chicago likes to open the bidding light. Fortunately for him, his fine dummy play brings home many tough contracts.

He won East's king of spades with the ace and played the jack of diamonds. East won with the ace and returned a spade which Alan won with the queen.

The play continued as follows: Club to dummy, diamond ruffed, spade ruffed in dummy, diamond ruffed, another club to dummy last diamond led and ruffed by East's eight and Bell's nine, last spade led and ruffed by dummy's ace of trumps.

Now Alan played the small club from dummy. East played the queen but West, who was down to nothing but trumps, had to trump his partner's trick and lead a trump up to Alan's king-jack combination.

Before I get a lot of mail explaining that South could have made his contract in a lot of other ways, I want to point out

Materials Aid Maintenance

Today's home owners have an easier job of maintaining their houses than ever before in history, says a publication for builders. It says that not many years ago, practically everything used in home construction required periodic maintenance to protect it against the weather, and repairs often were needed once a year. Among modern, long-lasting materials which may need no maintenance for periods of half a dozen years or longer are long-wearing exterior paints; roof and wall shingles made of minerals which never require painting; and steel hatchway covers for the steps from the basement to the yard with durable enamel coatings similar to those on automobiles.

New Dining Room Does Double Duty

A dining room that does double duty as a family room hides its double life behind walnut-paneled cupboards, in which dining necessities are in the upper half, entertainment equipment in the lower.

At dinner, the lower doors are closed, concealing the desk, bar, record player and TV set, and the upper doors are opened, revealing china and glassware.

Refrigerators Give 'Built-In' Look

Refrigerators with full square corners instead of curved edges are designed to blend neatly with standard wall and base cabinets for a "built-in" look.

Manufactured in modules or multiples of three inches, the refrigerators will present an aesthetic appearance more in keeping with the squared cabinetry so popular today. Most kitchen cabinet makers use three-inch modules.

Three Basic Blades

The home handyman with a portable electric saw can cut almost any substance used in home repair work including wood, metal, stone, concrete and tile—but he needs a saw engineered and powered to do the work and three basic blades: A steel blade for wood cutting, an aluminum oxide abrasive disc for cutting metal, and a silicone carbide abrasive disc for cutting masonry and related materials.

Restore Temper in Blade

Knife blades that won't hold an edge may have lost their temper. To restore temper, heat the blade over a gas flame until it is a dull red. Immediately plunge the blade into a large size potato and let it cool. The knife can then be sharpened.

Oil, Water Don't Mix

In mixing or thinning paints, remember that oil and water will not mix. Oil-base paint can't be mixed with latex paint. For thinning oil-base paint, turpentine or mineral spirits are used. Rubber base paint (latex) takes water.

Keep Windows Tight

It's wise never to run radio or television antenna lead-ins over window weatherstripping. Notch the weatherstripping if you must bring wires in through a window. A tight window fit is the purpose of weatherstripping.

Avoid Fire Hazards

Oil rags and workshop shavings and scraps are fire hazards. For safety, store them in a covered, fireproof pail.

Father Is Indicted In Shooting of Son

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—An Erie County grand jury has indicted Herbert Damstetter, 36, on a charge of first-degree murder in the shooting of his nine-year-old son.

Damstetter, a unemployed steelworker, attempted suicide after the slaying. He is still in a hospital recovering from two revolver shots in the chest.

Damstetter is accused of shooting his son, James, last Sept. 19 as the child slept in his home in nearby Bladell.

He told police: "I was tired of it all and wanted to take Jimmy with me."

The indictment was returned Friday. Damstetter is to be arraigned after his release from the hospital.

that Alan had made five odd not a mere four, and that over a period of years those overtricks mount up.

Also, East could have held the hand to four if he had led a trump when he was in with the ace of diamonds.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Howard C. Shurter, county director Veterans' Service Agency, and Charles L. Culver, state veteran counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, submit another in a series of articles on rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen and other dependents.

Mail—Christmas packages addressed to military personnel stationed overseas should be mailed before the middle of November to insure delivery in plenty of time for the Christmas season. Parcels and mail sent overseas to servicemen's dependents and authorized government employees who receive their mail through Army or Fleet Post Offices in New York, N. Y., San Francisco, Calif., New Orleans, La., and Seattle, Wash., likewise should be mailed early next month. Maximum allowable weight for packages may be obtained from local post offices. In addition to articles usually prohibited from the mail, matches and lighter fluid may not be mailed to overseas military addresses.

Education—Veterans who are at least 21 years of age and residents of New York State are eligible to take tests to earn the NYS High School Equivalency Diploma. The five tests in the series include exams in Social Studies, Correctness and Effectiveness of Expression, Science, Literature and General Mathematics. The tests are held several times a year. Application forms and the dates the tests will be held in this area may be obtained from local high school principals or this office.

Insurance—Funds are now available to repay veterans due refund, in connection with amounts which were collected from them under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940. Only 90 per cent of the amount authorized for refund by Public Law 85-586 will be paid. This is due to an order of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia which issued a temporary injunction enjoining the Veterans Administration from distributing more than 90 per cent of the refund authorized by law. The injunction which was brought about through matters before the U. S. District Court will remain in effect until the pending litigation is finally determined or until a further order of the Court. Persons who receive a 90 per cent refund will be informed directly of the final outcome of the litigation pending before the U. S. District Court and need not make any further application in this regard. Veterans who are due a refund may apply for it at this time and may receive assistance from this office in making application.

Medical—The government can pay for out-patient medical care for Spanish American War veterans from private physicians only when the out-patient treatment has been authorized by the VA before it is rendered. SAW veterans desiring out-patient medical care from private physicians at VA expense, therefore, should make prior application for such out-patient treatment care. An authorization, however, may be issued in emergency cases for emergency treatment already rendered if the VA is notified by the veteran or his physician within 15 days of the date that the out-patient treatment began.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency. The address is 32 Main Street, Kingston.

30-Second Safety Test

Home safety experts say that for your own protection, you should be able to reach the outdoors from any area of your house in about 30 seconds in an emergency. The Better Basement Institute reports that homes passing this test usually have three exits—front, back and a separate exit from the basement to the outdoors. This exit permits you to go directly to the yard without running through the rest of the house.

Because of the vital protection which an outside basement exit provides, the institute says, many communities require that it be installed in every new house. For added protection, steps from the basement to the yard can be covered with a fireproof, double-leaf steel hatchway.

Red China Continues to Build Nation on Backyard Steel

TRICKLE OF INDUSTRIAL WONDERS awes these rural visitors eyeing farm machinery at a Peiping exhibit. Back home they still plow with oxen—or even with their own muscle.

Load Still Falls on Backs of Human Ants

BY JOHN STROHM

NEW YORK, (NEA)—Almost everywhere you go in Red China your nostrils are assailed by a sulphurous smoke that reminds you of Gary or East Chicago. Red China is out to make the "great leap forward" in steel production by twin programs, one old, one new.

In farmyards, on school playgrounds, college campuses and vacant lots, the belching vest-pocket blast furnaces of the old way polka-dot the landscape with smears of smoke. And those who stoke them with hand-crushed ore, coal and limestone are the farmer and his wife, the schoolchildren and college kids.

Thus did America produce pig iron in the mid-1800's on myriad "plantations" close to the land (for ore) and the forest (for charcoal). They are not new to China, but the program has exploded in size.

I must have seen more than 1,000 of these furnaces during my tour of Mao's domain. They range from three feet to 30 feet high, their output from 100 pounds to 100 tons daily.

Red China's economists reasoned thusly: To save transport, take the furnace to the raw materials and only move the pig iron to the factory. The iron pigs are fed to the great new rolling mills like those I saw at Hankow and Anchan.

$32 A Month
But Red China is by no means betting on its backyard iron-mongers. At Anchan I visited a sprawling mill where 100,000 workers making an average of $32 a month turn out one-third of China's iron and steel.

They mine their own ore, get nearby coal and make pig iron, steel, iron rails, steel beams and seamless tubing.

A tiny trousered woman was jockeying one electro-magnetic crane that lifts 40 tons of steel rails and stacks them as lightly as chopsticks.

One of the chief engineers of this plant gestured with satisfaction at the smoke-plumed stacks. "The Japanese," he said, "sneered that the Chinese don't know how to run factories and will probably start growing sorghum here."

Indeed, the Chinese are demonstrating an aptitude for manufacture that few Westerners once would have believed. I talked with businessmen from Denmark, Britain and Germany and the consensus of their comment was: "Chinese learn fast, can operate machinery well."

Several Red engineers and plant managers told me they keenly desired to see U. S. plants and methods but realized that was impossible, because as one put it, "Your Mr. Dulles has erected a Bamboo Curtain that would prevent it." (This assertion that the Bamboo Curtain was erected by the U. S. and not Red China is a recurrent Red refrain.)

Increased Production

"Before the liberation," a Chinese plant official told me, "we produced only 923,000 tons of steel and 1,800,000 tons of pig iron. Last year we produced 5,300,000 tons of steel. This year's goal is 10 million tons and next year's is 20 million—almost as much as Britain."

Britain's net tonnage of ingots and steel for castings in 1957 was 24,300,000. America's was 112,700,000. Thus Britain's production is the first plateau the struggling Chinese hope to reach. They talk about achieving economic parity with Britain in 10 to 15 years. A few optimistic Communists even talk of five.

Who knows whether these goals are solid prospects or wishful planning? One only sees today that there is a vast flexing of muscle, a tremendous state-directed upsurge of effort and that the first signs of an industrial civilization are beginning to stamp themselves upon mainland China.

China's industry may not look impressive to an American but there are indications the Russians are being asked to sit up and regard it with some seriousness. (It could, if increased, make Peiping as independent of Moscow industrially as it has begun to be ideologically.)

And the visitors from the rice paddy and ox cart countries of Asia who come here to visit stand around in goggle-eyed amazement at Red China's trickle of industrial wonders.

There's an atomic reactor (which I did not see) and they're turning out television sets, jet planes, automobiles, tractors and machine tools.

Export Exhibit

At an export exhibit in Shanghai I picked up sales literature in English for 6,500 products which were said to be exported to 82 countries. Copies of American toothpaste, sewing machines and fountain pens were easily recognized.

Although they manufacture trucks, the bulk of commerce teeters along in baskets slung from shoulder poles or on two-wheel carts drawn by two or three human horses.

China makes the "East Wind" automobile but you can't own a car in China so everyone except high government officials walks, bicycles or goes by pedicab.

An industrial exhibition showed a giant crane with a five square yard bite. But out on the dams and irrigation ditches construction was by ten of thousands of men and women, digging, carrying and tamping in ways no different than when the Great Wall was built in 300 A. D.

There is something that clutches the throat in the sight of 20 or 30 thousand human ants swarming over one of these great earth-moving projects. The earth is tamped by lifting a heavy concrete block and letting it fall, in time to a sad rhythmic song that sounded much like the chant I heard in a Peiping Catholic church.

In Shenyang I saw a modern lathe factory where 5,000 workers were said to be turning out 4,000 precision lathes a year. "By next year we'll be making 10,000 and our factory will be as big as one I saw in Moscow," the vice-chairman reported proudly. And he added: "I don't know about the United States. I'd like to see some of your factories."

Every conceivable short cut and steel saving device is taken. In Nanking an engineer showed me truck cranks made partially from iron, part from steel. "We find they work well," he said.

No Private Business

There is no private business left in Red China. Everything is government or joint owned. This last is a device whereby the conscientious capitalist may petition the government to make him a joint owner.

"How did you become a joint owner?" I asked a woman of 45.

"I realized that as a capitalist I was exploiting my employees. I had to worry about getting materials, about competition. So I petitioned the government."

"And how has it worked out?" "Oh, much better. Our production has gone up. I get the same salary as my income when I owned the shop. (This is $92 a month, almost twice what the factory manager is paid.) And I'm paid five per cent interest on the value of the property for five years."

A great "rectification" campaign that swept all Red China is just drawing to a close. The purpose was to encourage workers to make suggestions for doing things better, easier, more economically. Suggestions were hand brushed on paper and stuck on the factory walls for discussion.

AS RED CHINA FLEXES HER MUSCLE, the big load still falls on the backs of human ants. These are laborers on a bridge project northwest of Peiping — not far from the Great Wall which was built in 300 A.D. in ways not much different from today's sweat and brawn.

Many a factory manager has come out of his office to face handwriting on his wall which said: "Comrade Manager: If you did not put on so many airs and met your workers more often we could increase production."

Fantastic Ideas
Some of the fantastic ideas like the wooden automobile I told about earlier came out of this gigantic "suggestion box."

The biggest problem seems to be capital. What help the Chinese get from the Russians and other "people's democracies" costs dearly. So therefore their industrial expansion must be based largely on what can be wrung from the hides of peasants who have struggled for centuries just to keep alive.

And over it all beams the benign face of Mao Tse-tung, who said four years before he took over the mainland government: "Without industry there can be no people's welfare and no national prosperity and power."

"WHY" the candidate is often as important and significant as "WHO" the candidate.

Did you ever stop to consider WHY certain candidates are hand-picked for nomination by the BOSSES. The BOSSES know that these candidates are reasonably "SAFE" for them to "DEAL" with or they just don't get the nomination.

Often, certain candidates' record and reputation of having been "EASY" to "DEAL" with when they occupied some other office is well known to the BOSSES. In these cases, nomination is just about automatic AND YOU DON'T EVEN HAVE TO SHOW UP TO ACCEPT IT. THE BOSSES WILL ATTEMPT TO FOOL THE PUBLIC FOR YOU. THEY KNOW THEY CAN USUALLY RELY ON CERTAIN PRESS AND RADIO OUTLETS TO SLANT THINGS JUST THE WAY THEY WANT THEM.

You don't even have to worry about attending the Party convention so the delegates can at least SEE who they were TOLD to nominate. The BOSSES don't need you around. Sometimes they don't bother to show themselves. They have attended the REHEARSALS and know the show will go on as planned.

You can be sure the BOSSES will want THEIR man to display PUBLIC HONESTY, PUBLIC INTEGRITY, PUBLIC COURAGE and dedication to ideals. But, the BOSSES know he will be THEIR MAN. Yes, THEIR CAPTIVE when it will serve their corrupt and selfish motives.

The BOSSES want their UNLAWFUL ACTS kept from YOU, the public. In fact, they expect the PUBLIC to consider such acts as being of a very CONFIDENTIAL nature and go so far as to make public expression of the fact.

HOW CONVENIENT A CAPTIVE DISTRICT ATTORNEY FITS INTO THE BOSSES' PLANS . . .

HOW MUCH BETTER FOR US TAXPAYERS TO HAVE AN HONEST, EXPERIENCED, COURAGEOUS AND UNBOSSSED DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Dr. Dudley Hargrave, Ulster County Health Commissioner, introduced the speaker of the day, Miss Marian Pratt, Consultant to Public Health Nurses, New York State Department of Health. Miss Pratt in discussing "Rehabilitation in the Home" said she liked the term in rehabilitation for the handicapped, "Do It Yourself" and defined rehabilitation as the restoration of a person to his original capacity, physically and mentally. She suggested making a person conscious of his potentials and then helping to interpret to him these potentials. Miss Pratt said the Public Health nurse can be of great assistance in helping to carry out a program of rehabilitation in the home of the handicapped. She cited several examples where families can improve ways to assist the patient to "do it yourself." The speaker congratulated the Council of Social Agencies for their fine educational program of "Rehabilitation for the Handicapped."

PROCLAIMS NURSE WEEK—Mayor Edwin Radel presents a proclamation to Mrs. Marion Ostrander, public relations chairman for District 11, New York State Nurses Association, which he signed designating October 26-31 as "Nurse week." In his proclamation, Mayor Radel called upon all citizens, organizations, and schools to recognize this special week and to join in a public thanks to every nurse. (Freeman photo)

October 26 to 31 Is Set Aside as Tribute To Professional Nurses, Their Achievements

"With loyalty I will endeavor to devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care." This quote, taken from the Nightingale Pledge, forms the theme of the New York State "Nurse Week," October 26 to 31, which Mayor Edwin Radel proclaimed locally this week. In his proclamation Mayor Radel said:

"It is this theme which the New York State Nurses Association would like to have publicly recognized during this week. 'The Nurse is devoted to you, your children — let us for one week remind ourselves of this inspiring devotion.'"

The purpose of the observance is to focus public attention on the nurse. It is designed to publicly acknowledge the service the nurse so unselfishly renders to John Doe and his family, to renew the nurse's pride in her profession, and to recruit young women into a professional nursing career.

Locally, New York State "Nurse Week" is being sponsored by District 11 of the New York State Nurses Association. Theme of the observance is — Mission: Humanity.

Oldest of Arts

In an official release received from District 11, concerning "Nurse Week," the following is stated:

"Nursing is one of the oldest of mankind's arts . . . and one of the most essential of its occupations. 'However, only since the late nineteenth century have nurses been classified under organized registration codes, and have been able to be regarded as 'professionals.'"

"Even today all nurses are not professional nurses . . . R. N.'s, as we call them, 'registered nurses.' A young woman becomes a professional nurse only after long, intensive study and practical training."

"There are a number of ways in which a prospective professional nurse can get her basic nursing education. The program which prepare students for nursing positions range in length from two to five years and in cost from no fee to several thousand dollars."

"Most professional nurses are trained in the three-year diploma program offered by a hospital or independent school of nursing. The collegiate nursing program is a four or five year

Marketing Report

Fall features sweet potatoes, a boost to the budget and the diet. While sweet potatoes may offer economy to the budget during any season of the year, they become particularly attractive in price now, as retail prices are near their seasonal low. According to extension specialists a serving of sweet potatoes costs slightly more than three cents. A serving of baked sweet potato supplies more than twice the amount of vitamin A recommended for the daily diet of the normally active man, about one-third of the vitamin C, and about one-tenth of the iron.

Color is a clue to vitamin A value in several yellow-orange vegetables. Besides sweet potatoes, carrots, winter squash, and pumpkin are rich sources. Of the four, sweet potatoes rank the highest in vitamin A value.

Sweet potatoes may be used in the menu in many ways. Boil, bake, fry, mash, candy, or glaze them, and serve them with a main dish—pork, chicken or ham. For a new taste treat try mashing sweet potatoes with some orange juice and crushed pineapple, top with marshmallows or brown sugar and broil them until brown.

Wool Skirt

Unit leaders completed their training this week in preparation for teaching the construction of wool skirts. The lesson this week was the fourth in a series of training schools conducted by Miss Adeline Snellman, specialist, and Miss Alice Aho, assistant county home demonstration agent.

The leaders who completed the training and the units they will be teaching are: Mrs. Edith Lapoe and Mrs. Howard Simpson, Clintondale; Mrs. James Inness and Mrs. Wm. Martin, Ellenville; Mrs. Howard Fahnrick, Kingston Day; Mrs. Robert Meyer, Ohayo; Mrs. Christopher Gleitsman and Mrs. Walter Lofink, Plattekill; Mrs. John E. Nau, Saugerties; and Mrs. Gerald DuBois, Modena.

Living Together in the Family

Mrs. Ruth Thomas, specialist in the Department of Child Development and Family Relationships at the New York State College of Home Economics has conducted a training school and visited with two study clubs this week.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Thomas visited the Child Study Club at the home of Mrs. Richard Sherman in Kerhonkson. Mrs. Clifford Schoonmaker was leader and two topics, "How we build our emotional strengths" and "Children who can face tomorrow" were discussed.

A training school led by Mrs. Thomas entitled "Living Together in the Family" was held on Wednesday morning. The group discussed a number of questions on family cooperation and good family relationships. Mrs. Thomas summed up the meeting by giving Dr. Karl Menninger's six qualities essential for good relationships. They are sincerity, personal integrity, humility, courtesy, wisdom and charity. It was pointed out in the discussion that there are many things we can do to help us have better team work in the family and achieve these ends. A few of these are:

- 1) By watching our tone of voice. Often times the way we speak irritates family members.
- 2) We can use "thank you" and "please" more often.
- 3) We can let children help plan the work that needs to be done.
- 4) We can be careful not to compare children in the family, remembering that children have different abilities and work at different rates of speed.
- 5) We must remember that we all make mistakes, and in a friendly, understanding way we must help our children to understand how they can do better next time.
- 6) The same evening Mrs. Thomas visited the Modern Mothers' Study Club at the home of Mrs. Edwin Kittle. The main theme of the group work is Understanding the Preadolescent and the topic for the evening was "Why Are Preadolescents Often Called the Neglected Group?"

Mrs. Helene Carr led the discussion. The feeling of the group was that the preadolescent gives little evidence through his behavior that he has needs which can be met by the family and therefore these needs may be overlooked.

Weizmann Dinner To Be Nov. 16th At Grossinger's

Six Ulster County residents have been named as co-chairmen for the 11th annual dinner to help biological studies at the Weizmann Institute of Science, Rehovoth, Israel.

Funds raised will be used to further develop the Asher Selig and Malke Grossinger Memorial Library in Biological sciences at the institute.

Working on promotion of the dinner scheduled Sunday, Nov. 16, are three people from Kingston, Dr. Leon S. Gray, Joseph Honig and Charles Warshaw. The three residents of Ellenville on the committee are Benjamin Dekofsky, Mrs. Irving Feinberg and Herman Weinbrod.

The dinner, sponsored by the Sullivan-Orange-Ulster-Greene Counties Council of the Weizmann Institute of Science will take place at Grossinger's.

The library was established by the council as an expression of affection for Mrs. Jennie Grossinger and a tribute to her late parents. Mrs. Grossinger is an honorary chairman, as is Louis Perlstein, South Fallsburgh.

Henry Temes of Woodridge is general chairman. Serving on committees are many residents of communities in this sector. Plans for the dinner were announced at the organizational meeting, Thursday, Oct. 16.

State Representative Urges Citizens Set High Standards; Is Against Discrimination

Mrs. Eunice Grier, a field representative with the State Commission Against Discrimination, told B'nai B'rith Women, "Eliminating discrimination is not only the job of our state but also of each of its citizens" and urged them as well as other public and private groups to help set high standards in non-discriminatory policies for the country and the world.

She addressed more than 100 women at a dinner meeting in the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Mrs. Grier, who was introduced by Mrs. Leonard Bard, co-ordinator of the affair, credited the Anti-Defamation League, a national B'nai B'rith sponsored group, with aiding the commission in a large measure but warned, "Laurels are never a very secure place on which to rest." Explaining the workings of the commission, she said that a formal complaint must be filed before this group can investigate and conciliate matters when discrimination in housing, places of public accommodation or industry is committed. If the five-man commission is unsuccessful in urging the offenders to abide by our state laws against discrimination, it can resort to calling a public hearing on the case.

However, commented the speaker, this is seldom necessary since few persons or groups want it publicly known that they are guilty of refusing others their civil rights. Mrs. Grier, who has a wide background in sociology and the study of race relations, outlined six ways that private citizens can work towards insuring equal opportunities for all:

- 1) By writing to your congressmen and bringing to their attention violations in this field.
- 2) By lodging a formal complaint with the State Commission Against Discrimination when necessary.
- 3) By being an informed and articulate spokesman for civil rights.
- 4) By supporting and creating programs to combat discrimination.
- 5) By letting employers who hire according to ability and not according to race, creed or place of national origin know we approve of their actions.
- 6) By supporting educational

The Oklahoma Farmer-Strookman recently sponsored a contest for the best essays suggested by two pictures, one showing a dilapidated house and the other a field badly eroded.

First prize went to a Cherokee Indian, who wrote:

"Both pictures show white man crazy. Make big tepee. Plow hill. Water wash. Wind blow soil. Grass all gone, papoose too. No chuck away. No pig, no corn, no hay, no cow, no pony. Indian no plow land. Keep grass. Buffalo eat. Indian eat buffalo. Hide make tepee, moccasins, too. Indian no make terrace. No build dam. No give a damn. All time eat. No hunt job. No hitch-hike. No ask relief. Great Spirit make grass. Indian no waste anything. White man crazy."

Here is a good "end-of-the-depression" story, as told by Miss Keturah Baldwin, business manager of the Home Economics Association. The bookkeeper of a firm which had been running at a loss for the past four years rushed in one president's office with a financial statement in his hand, shouting:

Bookkeeper--We're out of the red!

President (looking at it)--But this statement is written in red.

Bookkeeper--We have no black ink.

President--Well, buy some.

Bookkeeper--But if we do that sir, we'll be in the red again.

President (Of the Women's Auxiliary)--Ladies, please rise if you wish to vote on this question.

There was no response.

President--All in favor will please giggle, all opposed groan. The giggles have it, and so it is ordered.

Then there's the case of the sweet young thing who decided she'd rather be a young man's slave than an old man's darling, with the explanation that she hated the thought of old age creeping up on her.

One of our clothing merchants was selling his best friend a suit. And how this merchant raved about the garment!

Merchant--I'm telling you, Harry, even your best friend won't recognize you in that suit. Just take a walk outside for a minute and get the feel of the garment.

Harry went out and returned a minute or so later.

The merchant rushed to greet him.

Merchant--Good morning, sir. What could I do for you?

In the window of a department store: "If you need it, we have it."

In the window of another store across the street: "If we don't have it, you don't need it."

An old farmer raised a lot of hogs and sold them.

After the last truck delivery he sat down, using about a ream of paper, seeing how he came out on the deal and arrived at figures showing no loss, no profit.

He tapped his paper with pencil, leaned back in his chair, gazed at the ceiling and said:

Farmer--Well, anyway, I enjoyed their company.

A druggist met an old customer on the street and asked,

Druggist--Well, Tom, did that mudpack I suggested improve your wife's appearance?

Tom (mournfully)--It did for a couple of days but then it wore off.

A free country is one in which there is no particular individual to blame for the existing tyranny.

Cheryl Crane Now At Beverly High, Is Good Student

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Lana Turner's daughter, Cheryl Crane, 15, who fatally stabbed the actress' sweetheart, Johnny Stompanato, six months ago, is now a student at Beverly Hills High School.

"She is very quiet and apparently happy here," a school official reported. "And she is a good student."

The stabbing of Stompanato, former bodyguard of ex-gambler Mickey Cohen, occurred during an argument between Miss Turner and Stompanato in a bedroom of Lana's home. A coroner's jury called it justifiable homicide.

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Shirley Hewes, 23, injured in an automobile accident in which her husband was killed, gave birth Friday night to a stillborn, premature girl.

The birth occurred in St. Luke's Hospital, where she is recovering from her injuries. Hospital officials said she is in fair condition and unaware of the death of her husband, Charles, 28.

The Hewes children, Daniel, 2, and Carl, 1, are in fair condition in the same hospital. The accident occurred Thursday near Brainard, Rensselaer County, N.Y., when their automobile struck a tree. Hewes, a taxi-cab driver, was enroute to Northampton, Mass., to visit his ill father.

Woman Loses Life In Driverless Car

AUBURN, N. Y. (AP) — A driverless car containing a man and a woman lurched from the curb Friday night, zoomed about a block and hit a tree. The woman was killed, the man injured critically.

Mrs. Ruth Post, 56, was killed. John Kenny Sr., 66, was injured. Police said the driver of the car, John J. Kenny Jr., 29, had stopped in front of his home to let his father out from the driver's side. The elder Kenny apparently hit the accelerator as he slid across the seat and the car shot forward, police said.

Plattekill

PLATTEKILL — Announcement was made of the birth of a daughter, Justine Inez, to Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Arrasara, at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, Monday, Oct. 20. Mrs. Arrasara is the former Gayle L. Wager of Plattekill.

The second and final hearing on the Plattekill Town Budget will be held at the town building Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 8 p. m. in Modena.

The proposed 1959 budget is $88,981.57 as compared to $78,800.07 last year.

Increases have been noted, right down the line. The special districts, which had $10,181.50 last year, is increased to $16,350 this year. They included lighting districts in Modena and Clintondale, and the fire districts in all three districts of the town, Clintondale, Modena and Plattekill.

The largest single item is the town highway fund of $46,180. This includes $23,000 for general repairs, $12,000 for snow removal, $9,100 for new machines and tools, $600 for the bridge fund, and the salary of the superintendent of highways. Next to the highway item in the budget is the general government fund of $17,249.81, which included salaries of board members, building rental and insurance.

The town will benefit, however in having the special census enumeration, conducted last spring.

Work is progressing favorably on the new addition to the Plattekill Elementary School, here, with completion expected in January.

The new Leptondale School is not expected to be completed until a year later. Pupils from the Leptondale - Forest Road area will continue to attend Walkkill Elementary School and annex during this current school year.

Two first grade sections from the Plattekill and Leptondale area, are being transported by bus from Plattekill to the existing two-room school at Leptondale, until the completion of the four-room addition to Plattekill.

Members of Plattekill Methodist Church will participate in the program observing Reformation Day on Sunday, Nov. 2, at the Highland Methodist Church. Union services will be conducted by members of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches, Highland, at 8 p. m.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Daniel Potter, executive secretary of the Protestant Churches of New York City.

Robert Casper of Highland will direct the music.

Other Protestant churches included in the union services are Middle Hope, New Paltz, Milton and Marlboro.

Soviet Assails Nobel Award As Plot on Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union charged Saturday the award of the 1958 Nobel Prize for literature to Boris Pasternak was a cold war plot against Russia.

The Literary Gazette said the award announced Thursday in Stockholm was "a hostile political act directed against the Soviet state." This was the first official Russian comment on the award.

Scores Commie Life

The Swedish Academy of Letters voted the prize to Pasternak for his novel "Doctor Zhivago," which sharply criticizes life in Russia under the Communists. A best-seller abroad, the novel has been withheld from publication inside the Soviet Union.

Pasternak said in an interview he did not believe the Nobel Prize would mean publication of his novel at home. But neither did he expect to be affected adversely, because of the attention focused by the award, the 68-year-old poet and translator added.

Pasternak said he was overwhelmed and overjoyed at selection for the world's top literary award. A cable received in Stockholm said he hoped to go to the Swedish capital Dec. 10 for presentation of the award and the $41,420 that goes with it.

But there was no official word here whether Pasternak would be permitted to make the trip.

Like Country Squire

When Western newsmen found the grey-haired author after the award was announced Thursday, he looked like a country squire in grey hat and blue greatcoat as he walked near his country home at Peredelkino, a writers' village about 20 miles from Moscow.

(Stories on the interview were filed Thursday but were held up by Moscow censorship until Friday night.)

Park of Little League Damaged, Police Checking

A report of malicious mischief at Kingman Park which resulted in damage of between $200 to $300 was reported to police Friday night.

A blotter notation at 9:24 p. m. said the damage consisted of iron pipes which were uprooted near the baseball playing field and newly-seeded ground had been torn up.

The detective division is conducting an investigation. Kingman Park, located off Lawrence Street, is the playing field of the Kingston National Little League.

Preferred Chair Boyish Looking Killer Gets 99 Years in Prison

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A boyish looking killer lost his murder trial Friday night. He asked the jury for the penalty of death, but instead got 99 years in prison.

Edward L. Leonard, 28, grimaced when the verdict was read. The jury deliberated eight hours before accepting the defense argument that he is mentally sick.

"I intend to be as good a prisoner as anyone else up there," he said. "But I'm sorry I didn't get the electric chair."

In an hour and a half of total recall testimony he told the jury about two murders and how he tried to make it three. He said he killed, not to rob, but because he thought his victims were homosexuals and he hates homosexuals. Only his third attempt to kill had robbery as a motive, he said.

Defense psychiatrists said Leonard himself had strong latent homosexual tendencies which his conscious mind violently rejected. When he slew, they said, he was subconsciously committing suicide.

Leonard, formerly of McComb, Miss., was tried for murdering R. G. Bennett, 30, of Memphis, last May 19. He shot him twice in the back with a .45 pistol.

He also gave the jury a full report on the slaying of Glenn L. McMahon, 32, in McMahon's Houston, Tex., home four days later. The prosecution had not mentioned McMahon's death in its case.

Photos of Mexico To Be Shown at Family Dinner

A tour of Mexico, as seen through the eyes of caravans conducted in recent years by the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Oudemool of the Old Dutch Church, will be presented with text and slides at the "family night" dinner next Wednesday at the church.

This is the second in the fall series of such dinners. It begins at 6 p. m. The entire family is invited, including children.

The program, entitled "Come With Us to Mexico," will be presented by Mrs. Arthur Oudemool, Miss Carolyn Myer and Paul Nowaczek.

Made Two Tours

Both Miss Myer and Nowaczek have participated in two of the caravans into the heart of Mexico.

It was announced that the slides will be in color, presenting more effectively that colorful southern land below the border.

Reservations for the dinner must be made by Monday evening.

The Rev. and Mrs. Oudemool have conducted a tour of Mexico and the Southwest for teenagers for the past six years.

34 Make Trip

Last summer 34 boys and girls were in the party which visited some of the larger and more famous sites and monuments in Mexico as well as many remote villages off the main highways.

Among these were the great pyramids of Teotihuacan, the silver city of Taxco, the floating gardens of Zochimilco, the National Museum in Mexico City and the great market of Toluca where some of the finest and most beautiful baskets in the world are made.

The caravan had a day in the historic old city of Queretaro and saw the ancient aqueduct and the Hill of the Bells where Maximilian was shot. On Lake Patzcuaro they saw the Aztec Indians fishing with their unique butterfly nets and in Queretaro they shopped in a market famous for its lacquer trays, hand-carved wooden objects, tin and hand-loomed cloth.

See Glass and Pottery

At Guadalajara the group visited the world-famous Avila glass factory and saw blowers no more than 10-years-old making beautiful objects of molten glass. A trip to Tlaquepaque was a highlight of the Guadalajara area. This town is known all over the world for the beautiful products made there in pottery. The caravanners visited the houses of the pottery makers and watched them at their work. After a trip up the West Coast where the caravan stopped at beautiful Mazatlan and Guaymas for a swim in the Pacific, the tour finished with a three-day stop at Grand Canyon.

Mrs. Oudemool will have on display many of the fine handicrafts she has collected through the years. Outstanding in the display is a finely executed group of clay figures depicting all the various types of Mexican people.

Housewives Tangle, One Fatally Stabbed

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — Two middle aged housewives fought viciously with knife and ax in a front yard here Friday and one of them died from a stab in the chest.

Mrs. Dorothy Hylland, 42, mother of two children, died moments after being knifed just above the heart, said Police Chief Walter Walker.

Walker said Mrs. Bertha Baldwin, 43, Mrs. Hylland's next door neighbor, signed a statement admitting the stabbing. She was held in this small eastern Oregon town today without formal charge.

Chief said Mrs. Baldwin told him she acted in self defense after being hit on an arm by the ax. "So far as we can determine, she's not hurt," Walker said.

Korean Presidential Hopeful Given Death

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The Court of Appeals today reversed a lower court verdict and sentenced two-time presidential candidate Cho Bong Am to die on charges of espionage and violation of the national security law.

The decision is subject to review by the Supreme Court.

The court upheld government charges that Cho worked for the North Korean Communist regime through Yang Myung San, who was also sentenced to death today.

Yung and Cho were arrested last spring. Yang confessed he had worked as a liaison agent between the Communists and Cho.

Farmer Is Slain By Posse, Killed Wife, 2 Others

LINCOLN, N. C. (AP) — A 28-year-old farmer killed his young wife, her sister and a neighbor woman with shotgun blasts, then was hunted down and slain by a posse in a wooded area Friday night.

Five others were wounded before Roy Cook was killed as he tried to shoot it out from a wooded creek bank in this hilly country 30 miles northeast of Charlotte.

Hurt 3 Years Ago
Cook's head was injured in an auto accident three years ago. He had served a sentence recently for beating his wife, had a nervous breakdown while in prison, and spent about six months in the prison hospital.

Roy's mother said that before the accident he never caused her "a day of trouble in his life."

But Ambrose Hoyle, father of two of the victims, said simply: "He's just mean."

Killed were Rachel, 21, Cook's wife, apparently while running in a driveway at their tenant farmhouse about 13 miles west of here; Jeanette Cook, 18, her sister and wife of Cook's brother Wilbur, in a bedroom of her home about 200 yards away; and Mrs. George Smith, who rushed out of her home after Cook had wounded her 16-year-old daughter Marjorie. Marjorie had been dating Cook's younger brother.

Prison Guard Shot

A prison guard, Joe Godley, tracked down Cook with bloodhounds and was shot and seriously wounded in the hip. He remained in critical condition at a hospital here. Joe James, another prison guard from Shelby, was shot but less seriously hurt.

In his last ditch stand Cook wounded Lincoln County Sheriff Frank Heavner and a civilian, J. D. Williams, with a shotgun blast from about 10 feet away. Only Godley among the wounded was seriously hurt.

Starts 18-Year Term

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Hingham Patrolman John M. Travers, 37, today began serving a 2½ years jail sentence for assault on 18-year-old Diana Wilson.

Travers was sentenced Friday by Superior Court Judge Edward J. Voke. Miss Wilson is the daughter of Suffolk County Probate Court Judge Robert G. Wilson. She is a student at Russell Sage College, Troy, N. Y.

Travers will serve his term in the Plymouth County House of Correction.

Judge Voke gave Travers two concurrent sentences, one for assault and battery and one for simple assault.

10,000 in Capital Negroes, Whites In Same Schools, Marchers Urge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Students from as far away as Los Angeles converged on Washington today for a "youth march" demonstration in favor of sending Negroes and whites to the same schools.

Up to 10,000 whites and Negroes ranging from fourth graders to college students were expected to take part in the afternoon mass gathering.

The demonstration is sponsored by prointegration leaders, various churches, labor groups and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

Former baseball star Jackie Robinson, singer Harry Belafonte and Mrs. Martin Luther King, wife of the Alabama Negro integration leader, were among those listed to head a parade to the Lincoln Memorial.

An appointment with President Eisenhower for a student committee of four whites and four Negroes was sought by A. Philip Randolph, head of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. There was no word from the White House on whether Eisenhower would agree to see the committee.

Suspects New Type Bomb

SHIZUOKA, Japan (AP) — A Japanese scientist said today the Soviet Union may have detonated a new type of nuclear bomb in its new series of Arctic tests.

Dr. Takanobu Shiokawa said he could find no trace of uranium in fallout collected here during the past two days.

His analysis of the fallout showed 49 per cent neptunium 239 and a small per cent of various could find no trace of uranium in 237, usually contained in such fallout.

He would not speculate on what type of new bomb might be involved in the tests.

Soviet Plane Lands

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — A Soviet aircraft landed on the American ice runway at McMurdo Sound, Antarctica, this morning, the U. S. base there reported.

The plane piloted by S. Perov flew 2,500 miles non-stop from Mirny, the Soviet antarctic base, to survey ground conditions for a Soviet ice transcontinental tractor journey to Bellinghamsen Sea. The tractor trip is planned for the 1959-60 antarctic summer.
